

The Lawrentian

VOL. CVII, NO. 12

LAWRENCE UNIVERSITY'S STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Friday, January 26, 1990

Pat Schubert

Schubert beats Huglen; VP run-off election set

Pat Schubert was elected LUCC president by a near 2-1 margin but a near-deadlock in the vice presidential race will force a special run-off election between Sven White and Cindy Hoffman to be held on Monday.

White and Hoffman finished a mere 7 votes apart. Christine Sato, a late-filing candidate, did not garner enough votes to be included in the run-off.

"I think it was a very fine campaign run by both opponents," said Brian Huglen, who lost to Schubert in the presidential race. "I think Pat will do excellent as president." Huglen said he would continue in his role as LUCC finance secretary through third term. He did not rule out the possibility of running next year.

Schubert expressed optimism about his role as LUCC leader. "I think we have a really strong

See ELECTION, page 7

Protests and rallies mark Roe v. Wade anniversary

By Tom Zoellner

Illustrating how bitterly the abortion question has divided the nation, both pro-choice and pro-life demonstrators rallied last Sunday in Appleton and on campus to mark the 17th anniversary of the landmark Roe v. Wade decision.

About 3000 pro-life advocates marched in sub-freezing temperatures from City Park to rally on the Outagamie County Courthouse steps.

Only a few block away, in Lawrence's Colman hall, 250-300 pro-choice demonstrators celebrated the Roe decision that legalized abortions and protested against clinics that allegedly do not counsel women about the option of abortion.

Wisconsin State Senator William Te Winkle (D-Sheboygan) spoke at the Lawrence rally in Colman and promised to put a bill through the senate calling for the prosecution of what he called "bogus counseling centers."

See ROE V. WADE, page 7

How dirty is the Fox?: first in a series

Study alleges PCB in river

By Tom Zoellner

Parts of the Fox River are contaminated with portions of lead mercury and polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), a recent report by the Army Corps of Engineers said.

Frank Snitz, who prepared the report, said that the levels of PCB were highest in the navigational channels at the mouth of the river near Green Bay. The highest sampling of PCB--30 parts per million--was taken near Little Chute, he said.

Jack Sullivan of the state Department of Natural Resources said he had not seen the report, but he said that a PCB level of 30 ppm is "highly contaminated." The state of Wisconsin requires a level of 50 ppm before it can be classified as hazardous waste, he said.

ardous waste, he said.

Sullivan said that the PCB is the foremost environmental concern for the Fox. He added that continued exposure to PCB could lead to serious long-term health defects, such as cancer.

"The main source of the PCB comes from the recycling of carbonless copying paper," he said.

The report, which incorporated data from eleven water sampling sites, indicated that more extensive testing was needed before any conclusions can be reached.

However, Snitz was willing to "bet a box of donuts that paper mill discharge has caused the high levels of toxicity."

"As a generic class, paper mills are often common sources of PCBs through their discharges," he said.

THE FOX RIVER may contain hazardous pollutants according to a new study. A chemical called polychlorinated biphenyl was found in high quantities near Little Chute (McKell Moorhead photo).

MOJMIŘ POVOLNÝ: Returned home to Czechoslovakia after 42 years (Public Affairs Office file photo).

Povolny returns to homeland

By Mark Niquette

It is a January unlike any other January in the Czechoslovakian village of Menin. The domination of the Communist Party has been swept away, and new leaders are preparing the country for the first free elections in more than 40 years.

The people are still charged with the energy of revolution, and they are learning--many of them for the first time--how to live with and participate in a democratic government.

And after 42 years of virtual exile, native son Mojmír Povolný has come home.

Povolný, emeritus professor of government at Lawrence, left Czechoslovakia during the Communist takeover in 1949. At the time, he was the executive secretary of the Benes Party in Prague.

The Communist leaders in Czechoslovakia subsequently denied Povolný the opportunity to return to the country, even for a visit with family and friends.

But the Communists are no longer in power, and Povolný returned to Czechoslovakia on Jan. 8 for a two-week visit.

"It was like living an entire lifetime in two weeks' time," said Povolný, who traveled from Prague to Appleton on Monday.

He explained that the visit was "semi-official." Povolný, who is Chairman of the executive committee of the Council of Free Czechoslovakia, was part of a four-person delegation to Czechoslovakia representing the Council.

Povolný said he and the other members of the delegation were met at the airport in Prague by numerous government officials, including Vaclav Havel, who is the new president of Czechoslovakia.

Povolný and the delegation met with several key government and national leaders such as Alexander Dubcek, the ousted leader of the failed Prague Spring Reforms in 1968, who has been a prominent voice in the revolution.

Povolný said the purpose of the trip, which also included meetings with students and representatives from political parties and other elements of Czechoslovakian society, was to

See POVOLNÝ, page 4

From The Editor's Desk

This weekend, Lawrentians Against Apartheid For Divestment is sponsoring several presentations and activities to support the anti-Apartheid struggle and to encourage Lawrence to divest. The resolve of LAAFD and its ability to bring prominent figures like Prexy Nesbitt to campus on behalf of the anti-Apartheid movement speaks well for the group's organization and determination to achieve its goals. During the course of the past two years, LAAFD has worked hard to provide information to the campus about the Apartheid issue. In addition, the recent formation of the Advisory Committee on South African Issues is a good indication of both LAAFD's effectiveness as a lobbying and pressure group and the University's willingness to address both the immediate concern of LAAFD--that Lawrence divest completely from South African companies--and other issues involved in South African Apartheid.

But this praise rings hollow in the ears of the uninformed; the ultimate cause for which LAAFD fights--the end of Apartheid in South Africa--is lost on the persons who have never taken the time to try to understand Apartheid and the cries which have been raised against it. The fact that the Board of Trustees and the Lawrence powers-that-be will be examining Lawrence's involvement in the anti-Apartheid movement through the Advisory Committee of South African Issues is good, but LAAFD's goals--and, indeed, the drive to end Apartheid--would be better served if all members of the Lawrence community would simply listen.

This is not necessarily a call for activism per se; this is not a call for all Lawrentians to join LAAFD. It is simply a challenge and a request to the Lawrence community to take the time to learn about Apartheid and be informed about the issues involved. A movement like the anti-Apartheid struggle can achieve only limited success if people do not take the time to listen--even if they are sympathetic with the movement. We may not all agree if we understand the issues, and that's OK. Ignorance of these important issues is not.

—Mark Niquette

The Lawrentian

The Lawrentian, USPS 306-680, is published weekly, twenty-five times a year while classes are in session and is distributed free of charge to students, faculty, and staff on the Lawrence University campus. Subscription is $15 a year. Second class postage paid at Appleton, Wisconsin. POSTMASTER: send address changes to The Lawrentian, PO Box 599, Appleton, WI 54912.

Editorial policy is determined by the editor. Any opinions which appear unsigned are those of the editor, not necessarily of The Lawrentian's staff.

Letters to the editor are welcome and encouraged. No letter can be printed unless it is less than 350 words and legibly signed by the author. Names may be held upon request. The editor reserves the right to edit for style and space. Letters must be submitted by 5 p.m. Wednesdays to the Information desk or mailed to the above address.

Unsavvy Journalist.....Mark Niquette
News Editor.....Tom Zoellner
Features Editor.....David Kueter
Sports Editor.....Cory Kadlec
Photo Editor.....McKell Moorhead
Production Manager.....Kris Howard
Advertising Manager.....Ryan Tarpley

Production staff: Deedee Brister, Camille Cavitt, Kelly Hackett, Renee Johnson, Erica Langhus, Jeb Loew, Gordon Martinez, Kristin McKeel.

There will be no Lawrentian next week due to Winter Weekend.

Letters to the Editor/Open Forum

Sexist jokes in society lead to rape

To The Editor:

"Whoa, look at that! She's really built for action." "God, that one in the pink is hot! I want to f--- her." "Look at the girls. They're pretty quiet. I bet they're angry." "Yah, but they talk about guys in the same way. They're just a bunch of hypocrites." "I really want to f--- her."

People in a conversation like this are usually only joking. They know about rape and they know where the joking should stop. They would probably even be enraged if they found out that one of their friends had been raped. I think, however, that it is this type of joking that leads to rape.

I don't think it is simply a coincidence that men joke of rape and that rape occurs as a semi-joke. Certainly the rapists don't consider the feelings of their victims. It's not something they would do to a friend, but it is okay to do to a woman.

Obviously, something has removed the woman's integrity as an individual. She's a bitch. She deserves it. She asked for it. She was built for it. I think there is something to the fact that men joke of women as having no brain and that a rapist treats a woman as nothing more than a body. I am not saying that people who make sexist jokes are rapists. I am saying, rather, that their jokes are dangerous.

My participation in the above conversation shows how joking leads our society to allow rape. I consider myself a staunch feminist and someone who doesn't mind speaking up in a crowd. I would also like to think I wouldn't sit quietly when a conversation similar to the above is going on. Unfortunately, not only did I not critically object, but I sat there and smiled and even laughed. I would like to say this was a reaction to hearing something absurd. I think it is much closer to the truth however to say that I was influenced by peer pressure. I didn't want to ap-

See SEXISM, page 3

LU system for parking has flaws

To the Editor:

I, Andrew Gussert, here submit a portion of the recommendation sent to me by Paul Alex concerning the elimination of parking problems within the Lawrence parking system:

"After serving as Chair of the Parking Board, I have noticed that there are several flaws in the current parking system, and therefore adjustments need to be made in the legislation immediately."

"The first flaw concerns the authority of the current Parking Board.

Since it is incorporated in LUCC legislation, the Parking Board only has the authority to abrogate students' parking tickets. That is, it only has the authority to hold students accountable for their parking fines via end of the term billings through the business office."

"This is unfair because only one faction of the community is held accountable for their parking tickets. The other three factions (faculty, staff, and administration) do not fall within the guidelines of LUCC legislation. This fact is well known and I believe intentional since it has yet to be changed."

"The other three factions have taken advantage of an inequitable system and have benefitted from its loopholes. They do not have to pay their

See PARKING, page 3

Niquette should butt out

To the Editor:

I don't mind non-smokers, but I do mind rude people. Not only was Mark Niquette's last column about banning smoking in the Grill journalistically unsavvy, preachy and whiney--but it was also rude.

The column, plagued by its self-righteousness, could never have properly conveyed Mark's pressing problem: too much smoke in the Grill. He called smokers' habits "disgusting" and poked fun at their weak lungs. An opinion column does have the right

See SMOKING, page 3

CIVIL RIGHTS LEADER Prexy Nesbitt will speak at 8 pm tonight on "The Human Costs of Investing in Apartheid" in Riverview Lounge. (photo courtesy LAAFD).

LAAFD palms rally to support new anti-apartheid committee

By Jim Holthaus

A rally urging university divestment from South Africa, timed to coincide with a meeting of the Lawrence University Board of Trustees, was planned for today at 12:15 pm in Downer Commons.

"The rally is to show student support for the [anti-apartheid] cause," said Ubah Hussein, a member of Lawrentians Against Apartheid For Divestment (LAAFD).

On the agenda of this meeting of the Board of Trustees is to establish the Advisory Committee on South Africa Issues (ACSAI) which is designed to help establish Lawrence's policy in regard to divestment. Also scheduled to be discussed at the trustee meeting is the 1990-1991 budget, and the possibility of endowment spending to meet operational costs, according to president Richard Warch.

The rally, said Hussein, is not intended to be a demonstration, but is expected to show the Board of Trustees that LAAFD is "not just a bunch of radical students....we're dedicated, we've put a lot of research into this. It's time for us to be heard."

Hussein did not expect the ACSAI to accomplish much on this first day of its assembly beyond establishing the agenda for the committee's next meeting.

LAAFD has also arranged a presentation by Prexy Nesbitt, the consultant for the government of the People's Republic of Mozambique. Nesbitt, who served as the base for Dr. Martin Luther King's civil rights work in the 1960s and written and edited numerous books and articles including Apartheid in Our Livingrooms: U.S. Foreign Policy and South Africa, will speak at 8 pm.m. in Riverview Lounge.

His presentation will be followed by a See RALLY, page 7

Sexism . . .

(continued from page 2)

pear as one of those axe-carrying feminists.

Even worse, I can say that I wasn't the only one. Not one of some twenty men and women objected to the above conversation. The tragedy is in the encouragement that joking provides for itself. No one objects so it must be okay. In fact, perhaps it is even a little true.

How can rape occur when there are other people around watching? I think it is because they are within a group of people who won't support anyone who objects: a group of people who encourage joking of women as bitches and sex objects. People won't worry about objecting if they are supported. Rape simply doesn't occur among people who outspokenly object to anyone who makes a sexist joke.

Sexism should be looked at as another form of racism. I suggest that one should impose the same judgement to both areas. If it makes you feel uncomfortable deep down inside to say, "nigger," it ought to make you feel equally uncomfortable to say, "She's a bitch" or "I just want to f--- her." I think our society has agreed that making racist jokes is not a humorous matter. It should be similarly applied to sexism.

Rape does occur all too often in our society. The silent do get hurt; those who joke are encouraged. And those who would like to object won't be supported.

Sexist joking isn't something that has to happen whenever a bunch of guys get together. We should be able to control our actions. I recommend to the campus, especially to our greek system and athletic teams, a movie entitled The Accused. Perhaps you could combine the movie with a lecture in place of a weekend party.

--Randy Wright

Smoking . . .

(continued from page 2)

to be witty, satirical, sarcastic and harsh--but it is the level on which these characteristics are achieved that determines the quality of the copy.

Mark's column whined on the bottom rung of witty. So instead of doing its job and informing LUCC and smokers how endangered and frustrated a non-smoker feels, the column preached and rudely accused. After reading Mark's column a smoker could only chuckle and thank his or her God that it was so poorly written.

The fact that this weekly column is the only editorial-like piece in The Lawrentian scares me.

An editorial is usually anonymous, mature copy that expresses the entire news staff's opinion. In The Lawrentian, the editorial is what the reader's intelligence is insulted by when he or she reads the newspaper.

I found this column to be insensitive to smokers and blinded by non-smoker self-righteousness. Why else wouldn't Mark have seen the possibility of a designated non-smoking section in the Grill? Until someone listens to his whines, maybe Mark should take his virgin lungs outside, while I struggle with my habit amongst civil people.

Jessica is quite right on all counts. Well, I don't know about the "unsavvy" part. If any other smoker did not agree with me and was offended--and didn't write--YOU DISAPPOINT ME. If you are one of those smokers who "thanked your God" the editorial was so "poorly written." I think you're in trouble because I betcha your God has virgin lungs, too. But thanks for writing, Jessica. You made me feel better.

In any case, I don't mind civil people, but I do mind people who smoke around me. So nyah.

--Ed.

Parking . . .

(continued from page 2)

parking tickets nor do they really have to abide by the parking legislation of the so-called community. I feel that no one should be allowed to supercede parking rules in "our" community."

"Hence, a parking structure with more authority and legitimacy needs to be formulated in place of LUCC's parking legislation and Parking Board. The single most effective way to create an equitable system is through the formation of a University Parking Board and University parking legislation, which unlike the current LUCC legislation, would possess jurisdiction over the entire community."

--Paul Alex
Former Chair of the Parking Board

--Andrew Gussert
LUCC President

Hello Lawrence

321 E. College
Next to campus
749-2994

RESTAURANT AND BAR

Open 11am-
Midnight daily
4 pm to mid.
Sunday

Starting Jan 27th Cartoon Club (9am -noon every Saturday) 50 cent Beers 75 cent Bloody's Free Cereal and and screwdrivers Poptarts
Keep that Friday night fun going and catch your favorite cartoons too!

749-2994 We Deliver our full Menu 749-2994

WEST GERMAN CONSUL Heinz Wirth says that a United States of Europe is not unfeasible. (Post Crescent photo).

Diplomat sees one Germany

By Tom Zoellner

After 40 years of division Germany will soon become one nation, says West German consul Heinz Wirth, who spoke in a Main Hall Colloquium on Wednesday.

In fact, "Unification" seemed to be the buzzword during the consul's address.

Wirth, the Midwest consul for economic and cultural affairs, spoke of the recent fall of one-party communism in Eastern Europe as partly due to the influence of the European Community, a confederacy of twelve partner states.

"What happened in Eastern Europe during the last six months was partially caused by the example of the EC," said Wirth. "[The communist nations] certainly realized that if they wanted to participate in free trade, they must change their system towards democracy."

The EC is moving towards a breakdown of trade barriers and a common European currency, said Wirth. The eventual unification of the European nations could lead to a "United States of Europe," he said.

"There is a strong feeling in the twelve states of the EC that they must bring their resources together towards a united Europe," said Wirth. "This provides the framework for overcoming the division of Europe."

A united Europe, with 320 million consumers, would be the largest economic force on the globe, said Wirth, who added that experts in Brussels are already at work on a European constitution. However, whether a cohesive, federally-structured Europe will one day emerge is too early to see at this point, he said.

The recent fall of the East German communist dictatorship is characteristic of the spirit of European unification, Wirth said. He cited oppressive travel restrictions, a poor standard of living, and a desire for freedom as the causes behind the overthrow.

Not only is the East German turnaround a step towards democracy, Wirth says it also a step towards a unified Germany.

See CONSUL, page 7

Povolny . . .

(continued from page 1)

"get acquainted with the revolution" and to help determine the "needs the people have after 40 years of isolation."

But the trip was not all official business. Povolny said he and his wife, Joyce, "stole a few days for family and friends," including a trip to Brno to see his brother.

"I was very happy of course to see my family, where I grew up, and friends I had not seen in years," said Povolny.

Povolny's visit attracted the attention of the television stations and newspapers in Czechoslovakia, and Povolny said many people were anxious to see him.

"It seemed half the village passed through our living room," he said. "People were waking us up in the morning on their way to work, and we'd be occupied until midnight every day."

Povolny said the Czech people are "proud of what they have done," referring to the mass protests and demonstrations in November and December which toppled the Communist government. Povolny added that the people are confident the revolution is irreversible, but there is still some fear among the people about the strength and intentions of the Communists.

Povolny said the major concern facing the leaders and people of Czechoslovakia right now is moving the country to free elections in April in an orderly way so that the "political spectrum does not get too fragmented."

"There are about 35 parties already, but about 30 will not count," said Povolny. "There is an understandable lack of experience in democratic practices. It's only been two months and a week since the revolution began, and people must now learn how to organize parties, make compromises, and so forth."

"But it (the political participation of the Czechs) shows the tremendous enthusiasm on the part of the people to get involved."

The other major concerns of the Czechs, Povolny said, include improving the management of the economy, increasing productivity, and establishing a place for Czechoslovakia in the world market. He said the Czechs want to establish economic relations with the West, but they do not want loans.

Povolny said major concerns which he and the Council of Free Czechoslovakia will also try to address are the shortage of books and journals in the Czech libraries, and the need for people to teach English.

He said it is also important for universities in Western Europe and in the United States to develop student exchange programs.

"That is one way in which Lawrence can help the Czechs," he said.

Povolny gave much of the credit for the success of the "velvet revolution" to the Czech students and young workers who "took a stand against the regime" on the critical weekend of Nov. 17 and 18 and during the subsequent strikes and protests.

Povolny said he does not expect--or even want--to play a major role in the new government of Czechoslovakia.

He plans to return to his homeland in May or June for another official visit, and he has also been invited to present a lecture or series of lectures at Czechoslovakia's Masaryk University, where he earned his J.D. degree.

"I'll be in touch with the country," he said.

LU seniors face better market than most, says Career Center

By Andy Rutz and CPS

Most observers agree that spring graduates will face a tight, competitive job market. In contrast to the 1988-89 job hunting season, when students at some schools reported fielding multiple offers, a major annual survey of grads' job prospects this year presents much more sober pictures.

Michigan State University, which asked 479 key corporations and employers about their nationwide college grad hiring plans, found the companies foresee making 13.3 percent fewer job offers to students this year.

Michigan State survey director Patrick Sheetz said companies cited a gloomy view of business conditions in 1990, mergers and buyouts, increased global competition and slower turn over of current employees as the reasons they have had to cut back their hiring plans since 1988-89. "It's going to be a big game of musical chairs, and somebody is surely going to lose out," said Sheetz.

Carol Lampe, Director of Career Planning and Placement, disagrees with the pessimistic Michigan State assessment. She bases her judgement upon two observations: that this year's seniors are pursuing job opportunities with greater fervency than in any previous year, and that the number of job recruiters appearing on campus this year is double the number that appeared last year.

Lampe estimates that nearly 200 members of the senior class have already researched potential career opportunities. Recruiters visiting campuses are also being more selective than in the past she said.

Sheetz surveyed six regions, and said the best place to look for jobs will be in the Southwest. Next best is the Northeast, followed by the Southeast, North-Central, South-Central and Northwest states. Lampe adds that mid-western grads are in demand because they are reputed to possess an excellent work ethic.

Employers said they would offer 1989-90 bachelor's degree graduates av-

See CAREERS, page 7

The EPHRAIM Inn

Searching for Friendly People To Work With Us

The Ephraim Inn welcomes you to apply to help us in beautiful Door County. You would work in all areas of the exquisite bed and breakfast Inn. No experience is necessary. We are eager to teach you. Attractive compensation, and flexible scheduling.

If you wish to pursue this opportunity during the 1990 season, please write to:

The EPHRAIM Inn
 Tim and Nancy Christofferson
 P.O. Box 247C
 Ephraim, WI 54214

The News' Shorts

By Jim Holthaus

Sources: The Minneapolis Star Tribune, The New York Times, Newsweek, Time, The Washington Post

MOSCOW, USSR--After several days of ethnic violence in Soviet Azerbaijan which led to the deaths of more than 129 people, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev sent in thousands of troops and armored vehicles to help bring an end to the violence. The army is facing Armenian and Azerbaijani groups armed with automatic weapons, rocket launchers, armored vehicles and, according to some reports, helicopters. Maj. Gen. Yuri Keso-lapov, commander of the Soviet troops in the area, called the situation "civil war."

SAN SALVADOR, EL SALVADOR--A civilian judge ruled that sufficient evidence exists to personally arrest a colonel, three other officers, and five soldiers on charges of premeditated murder for the 16 November 1989 assassination of six Jesuits and two others. If found guilty, they could be sentenced to 30 years in jail.

JERUSALEM, ISRAEL--Israeli authorities arrested without charge Faisal Hussein, an East Jerusalem activist who has become a popular Palestinian leader in the West Bank. A judge issued an order which would allow the police to hold Hussein for four days.

NEW DELHI, INDIA--At least 25 people were killed and 60 wounded when Indian Army troops opened fire on demonstrators defying curfew in the city of Srinagar in the Kashmir.

MIAMI, FL--The military government of Haiti has begun to expel political leaders after a state of siege was declared. Haitian leader Lieut. Gen. Prosper Avril, who seized power 16 months ago, said the state of siege was "to protect democratic accomplishments against terrorism." Opposition leaders claim that Gen. Avril is planning to avoid elections scheduled for April of this year.

WASHINGTON, DC--After being arrested for smoking crack cocaine, Washington, DC mayor Marion Barry announced that he had "weaknesses" but that he would seek help for them. Barry declined to comment if he had a drug problem.

Forum: learning disabilities can be an 'invisible handicap'

By Anne Knipe

"Never lightly dismiss any student," said Harriet W. Sheridan, who met with faculty and the Committee on Learning Disabilities last week to discuss alternative ways of learning and how to provide an effective educational environment.

Bringing Sheridan, a professor of English and the Director for the Center for the Advancement of College Teaching at Brown University, to the campus was one of the primary goals of the committee.

Created last spring by a grass-roots poll from students and concerned faculty, the committee is developing printed material detailing informational resources on campus and also shaping a system that would assure necessary and reasonable accommodations for students with learning disabilities.

According to Geoff Gajewski, Director of the Writing Lab and a member of the committee, the group is responding to the ethical and legal responsibilities Lawrence has for assisting learning disabled students.

Committee chairperson and Associate Dean of Students For Academic Advising Marty Hemwall says that section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act requires schools to provide equal access to educational programs and "educational environments."

According to P.L. 94-142 Education for all Handicapped Children, an adequate learning environment would include reasonable accommodations for students with learning disabilities. To comply with these standards and to give learning-disabled students the opportunity to exhibit their understanding and potential, the committee is developing a list of reasonable accommodations to form conditions that would appeal to learning-disabled students' unconventional approaches to material.

"There are some students who genuinely need to have specific learning environments."

-- Debby Lipka

One of the student members of the committee, Debbie Lipka, explains that many students have a sense of study conditions that are personally effective for them, but she said "There are some students who genuinely need to have specific learning environments."

"Learning disabilities," Lipka explains, "are valid disabilities and do not affect intelligence" but reflect difficulties with particular approaches to learning.

Before her difficulty with reading and articulating her understanding was identified as Dyslexia, Lipka "didn't think accommodations were legitimate things to ask for." Small changes in teaching and studying approaches, however, can "make a significant difference" to learning disabled students and allow them to express their potential.

For learning disabled students, "The chances of making mistakes is significantly greater outside of these conditions," she said.

Some possible measures that would help students adapt to class material include tape recording lectures, looking over other student's notes, participating in study groups, tutoring, and utilizing multi-sensory teaching approaches.

A common problem, Dyslexia, which Sheridan called "the invisible handicap," involves difficulty reading and writing; a student with Dyslexia may confuse spellings, reverse letters and add or drop syllables.

Another prevalent problem is Dysgraphia, an inertia against the act of writing. Although students may articulate concepts very well, Hemwall explains, writing is difficult, resulting in "cramped, tight, almost illegible handwriting."

For students with Dyslexia or Dysgraphia, untimed tests and isolated testing situations give the necessary time to read the questions and the chance to approach the material in a way that works for them. Vocalizing thought while writing, for example, may facilitate the writing process. The option of typing an exam instead of handwriting it also would provide an alternative, kinesthetic approach.

Hemwall says the this spring the committee hopes to submit to the faculty the final draft of a written proposal detailing the implementation of reasonable accommodations for learning-disabled students.

Clothing from Guatemala and Indonesia
Giftware, Brassware,
Scarves and Bags

Imported Jewelry

MONDAY - 10-8
TUES, WED, SAT - 10-6
THURS, FRI - 10-9
SUNDAY - 12-4

For the finest in imports

HARDLY EVER

109 E. College Ave., Appleton
731-2885

Happy Appreciation Day, H.R.

The residential life staff hereby publicly appreciates the Head Residents, on the 22th day of January in the 90th year of the 20th century. This celebration attests to the enthusiasm and determination exhibited thus far in the performance of Head Resident duties.

"Hey, wait a minute. I just came in here for a little wood work, not a sermon!"

If you come in for a sermon, we promise not to give you wood work.

Emmanuel United Methodist Church --740 E. College Ave, just across from Downer.

Refreshing Worship
9:00 and 11:15 Sundays

From The Good Book c. 1970, 1972 by David Evans.
Used by permission of the publisher, Price, Stern, Sloan.

TRIVIA GRAND MASTERS Mike Engelson and Larry Dahlke will preside over Lawrence's 25th annual Midwest Trivia Contest, featuring stupid music, stupid questions, and yes, an occasional stupid person (Dan Marshall photo).

Assignment: Trivia

By Kris Howard

This week I got a pretty tough assignment: a story on Trivia. Now, those of you who have been here more than 11 months are saying, "What's so hard about that--everybody knows about Trivia." And those of you who haven't are saying, "Why did she capitalize that 't'?"

See what I mean? In an attempt to do something interesting and unique--and because I got tired of listening to Larry Dahlke's answering machine--I looked to some back issues of The Lawrentian for inspiration.

The first few years of Trivia coverage were pretty interesting, but by the time the contest had entered its third year, it became clear that all Trivia stories are the same.

They start off with something like, "At 10 p.m. this evening, WLFM will kick off its umpteenth annual Trivia Weekend."

This year marks the 25th time Lawrentians have gone through 50 sleepless hours of nonsense and bad music, so they'll probably have some suitable comments for the occasion.

Of course, when I say they, I'm referring to the Trivia Masters, a group of generally crazy people who are the gurus behind this whole operation. This year's grand masters are Larry Dahlke and Mike Engelson.

Most articles on Trivia contain a "veritable plethora" of quotes from the masters--enthusiastic descriptions like "Trivia's the greatest thing since Lib-erace left Menasha."

So, what exactly is

Trivia? Well, it's 50 hours of questions and answers, points and prizes, and stupid music.

David Pfleger, a master from '67, described the questions: "We will have questions for all segments of the listening audience, from teenyboppers to Fred Allen fans."

And, for those of you who are sure that Fred Allen's identity will pop into your head just as you are trying to get to sleep tonight, the words of Tony Welhouse, master in '73: "The best kind of question is the kind that's just off the tip of everybody's tongue."

Who answers these questions? Well, teams. Teams from on and off campus with names like Homeless Yuais Living in Bonastitude, the Armadillo Appreciation Society, Nude Waterskiers for Christ, and

See TRIVIA, page 7

Trivial tid-bits about Trivia

Jam Team: a fake name used by teams who are calling in simply to prevent other teams from getting through.

Garruda: one of the more difficult questions which comes at the end of the contest. The first and last questions are super garrudas, and the answer to the first is Lectures of the Function of the Main Food-Digesting Glands.

Action Question: a question that can only be answered if team members leave their lounges, i.e. How many inches wide is College Avenue?

Pope Pontius Page the One-Quartereth: an alias for Larry Page, Director of Broadcasting.

"Dead Puppies": The best of the many stupid songs played between questions. Other hits include "Work the Beef" and "My name is Larry."

Much Ado About Nothing: sold out

By Maria Schwefel

Saturday night's presentation of Much Ado About Nothing, one of Shakespeare's more popular comedies, at Lawrence's Cloak Theatre has been sold out.

Director John Middleton, a Lawrence student, feels the show is unlike most of Shakespeare's comedies.

"Usually the actors leave the set and go to some magical wood or enchanted forest and then return," he said. "This is a fairly bare stage with entrances and exits from four places."

Middleton said the show is about two young lovers. Ann Marie Heiman and Andy Jenrich play the lovers, while their two best friends are played by Jacques Troy and Tim Whitcomb. The cast of 13 actors doubles up on parts to play about 20 different characters.

"This show is not suspenseful," Middleton said. "The attraction lies in the cleverness of how the lovers get together. It's very funny," he added.

Although one may find the witty humor attractive, Middleton feels the interesting part of the story lies within the characters and their relationships.

"The whole play has a nice, holiday atmosphere to it," he said. "War has just ended and things are buzzing, like the first day of summer vacation when you were a kid," he said.

Middleton has previously directed plays for both Lawrence and Appleton's Community Theatre. He approaches his directing with a hands-off attitude toward the smaller details of a show and instead concentrates on presenting the final product.

"I don't get very deep into one aspect of a show. It's up to the actors and designers to do the focused work, and then I put it all together into a performance," he explained.

"We had four weeks to put it up, so it's been real quick. But we're taking a bite out of it and seeing what we can do with it," he said.

Sepik art exhibit features artifacts

By Catherine Boos

The current exhibit in the Wriston Art Center is a collection of Sepik art and artifacts from Papua New Guinea. The pieces, produced largely in this century--most no longer than 50 years ago--represent the variety of religious and domestic objects still in use today.

The pieces are made of traditional wood or clay with decorations of grass, hair, seashells, and dogs' teeth. The exhibit exemplifies a few of the many regional styles that exist in New Guinea.

The collection was donated to Lawrence's Anthropology department in 1982 by three alumni, G. Jack Gevaart, '55, Carol Colossey Gevaart, '58, and J. Russell Polzini, '53, who were residents in the Janesville-Beloit area supporting expeditions in the Sepik region.

Most of the exhibit is filled with spiritual or votive works. The people of New Guinea produce them for trade, but they must be desecralized first.

The Sepik religion is based on animalism and the belief that a dynamic or psychic force is present in all things.

The tremendous detail in the pieces and the photos in the exhibit illustrate the importance of art in the Sepik culture. Much time and effort was given to the making of each object.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 28, there will be a lecture on Sepik art and culture given by Kathleen Barlow of Gustavus Adolphus University, who also wrote the essay for the exhibit's catalogue. A reception will follow with a special musical performance by Dane Richeson and his students. All are welcome.

Schubert ...

(Continued from page 1)

base to build on with Andy [Gussert] and Paul Alex's work," he said. "There are ways in which we can make Lucc stronger as it related to the students and faculty."

Also on the ballot was a referendum calling for a greater role in the budget process for the vice president, treasurer, and finance secretary. The referendum passed almost unanimously.

LAAFD ...

(continued from page 3)

panel discussion with Coops Shuping, a member of the outlawed African National Congress, and David Messenbeing, a prominent anti-Apartheid activist and film director.

Shuping will also present a speech, "The struggle of Defiance and History of the ANC" on Saturday at 3 p.m. in Riverview.

When asked how much money Lawrence has invested in companies that do business in South Africa, Warch responded that he didn't have those figures at hand, but added that the amount of money which Lawrence has invested in firms that do business in South Africa has gone down over time because of the increasing number of firms that have ceased to invest in South Africa.

Warch further added that Lawrence invests only in "responsible" firms which adhere to a statement of principles originally stated by Rev. Sullivan.

Roe...

(continued from page 1)

Highlighting the political power of the abortion issue, Mary King of Wisconsin Right to Life and the leader of the march committee, said there is "no other issue that confronts candidates of the nineties" like abortion.

The rally at the courthouse called for support for the original form of Wisconsin legislature bill AB-38, which would require parental consent for a minor to have an abortion.

Careers...

(continued from page 4)

erage starting salaries of $25,256, a 3.3 percent jump from last year's average, Michigan State's study found.

The relatively small salary rises and limp job opportunities seem to stem from an attitude change from '88-'89 when employers, worried there wouldn't be enough grads to hire in the future, scrambled to get the best prospects. This year, many of the biggest firms are cutting back.

Trivia ...

(continued from page 6)

even the Royal Leprechaun Bunting Society.

The first Trivia contest was won by Plantz Hall (the names started out pretty dull). The final question? "What's the phone number of the New York Theatre where the widow of Humphrey Bogart is currently appearing?" How does anyone ever answer a question like that? In 1971 a librarian noted that "40 reference books which had disappeared mysteriously over the weekend" were returned on Monday.

And how to keep the other teams from answering? A group of Phi Taus thought they had the solution one year--they sent chocolate cookies laced with Ex-lax to the competition. But as the Trivia Credo clearly states, "Trivia is meant to be entertainment and should be perceived solely in that light. Conduct contrary to this governing credo will be an infraction of the rules."

The strategy which has proven most successful involves lots of people, pizza, and Pepsi. Norbert Q. Plotz (no, I don't believe that is his real name, but he was Trivia Master in '78) gave some timeless advice:

"Don't worry about that Chaney midterm. Chaney gives midterms three times a year and Trivia comes but once."

I couldn't end this article without quoting at least one Trivia Master who graduated but never left: Stephen J. Siegel--"Trivia is now larger than life."

Tune in to WLFM, 91.1 FM, this weekend because "humans have been cataloging useless data in an endless flurry... from the King's lists of the Egyptians to the New York telephone directory," and some bit of useless data in your brain might just be the answer.

WLFM 25TH ANNUAL MIDWEST TRIVIA CONTEST

JANUARY
26, 27, 28
1990

Trivia ab initio mundi usque ad hodiernum diem!

"The Goldwell
Color Specialists"

Everyday 20%
Discount to Students with Validine

D'morau
Guarantees
Personal Service &
Professional Results

HOURS: MON - FRI
9AM TO 9PM
SAT
8AM TO 3PM

730-9131
318 W. College Ave.

$10.00 OFF
HAIR COLOR OR SCULPTURED
NAILS

WITH AMY, SHALENE, BOBBI OR TAMARA
COUPON NOT VALID WITH OTHER OFFERS

$15.00 OFF
ANY FULL PERM

WITH AMY, SHALENE OR BOBBI
(PRECISION CUT & STYLE INCLUDED)
COUPON NOT VALID WITH OTHER OFFERS

Consul ...

(continued from page 4)

"The Germans are one people, with the same language, the same culture, the same history, and also a common desire for freedom, as the events of the previous year have shown," said Wirth.

Recent polls have shown 30 percent to 40 percent of East Germans are in favor of unification, but Wirth said that the recently-liberated government "must be free to choose its own destiny" in the months to come, especially on May 6, when East Germany will hold its first free elections in nearly half a century.

Wirth, a career diplomat, hails from a small village outside Bonn. He studied political science, sociology, and economics at the University of Bonn.

Wirth, who was previously stationed in Ethiopia, has two years left on his current assignment.

He is based at the Midwestern German Consulate in Chicago.

Andy The Man of Vision

(sung to the tune of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer")

You know Alex and Schubert and Riky and Chuckie Snakey and Huglen and Rosie and Bunte But do you recall...

The most famous Lawrentian of all?

Andy the Man of Vision

Had a very cushy job

And if you ever had it

You would say he was no slob

All of the campus leaders

Used to laugh at Lucc

They never gave Andy credit

"What do you expect from a Spee?"

Then one night in winter term

Someone wrote to say

"Andy you're so wonderful

You deserve a holiday"

So three weeks from now we'll cheer him

A gavel-banger who stands tall

Andy, the motion's carried

For the campus, you've done it all.

Book Review

The Monkey Wrench Gang Rides again

By David Kueter

"Destroying eyesores is simply another way of creating beauty, and Edward Abbey's dedicated crew are masters of this particular Renaissance. Of course, what the Monkey Wrench Gang does is outrageous, un-American and inimical to the sacred concept of property, and I thoroughly condemn them. If unchecked, they may even start dumping tea into Boston harbor..."

--Richard Bradford

"...each new book may be my last (for who knows? And one does grow weary anyway of this infernal scribbling)..."

--Edward Abbey

The cry goes up. One can hear it drifting through the literary world, which mourns the loss of one of its finest contributors, the heir to Thoreau. It haunts the dreams of developers and consumers who view the untamed west as merely an untapped resource in the way of human expansion. It brings hope to the tortured souls of John Wesley Powell and others whose names are immortalized in the dedications of hewn forests and flooded canyons.

But most of all, the cry reverberates triumphantly west of the Rockies. It can be found scrawled, in warning, in the bathroom stalls of our National Parks. It can be seen leading on the members of Earth First! as they march to place themselves between the gaping maws of civilization and the land they love. It can be heard echoing gleefully off the sandstone walls of the canyons of the Colorado Plateau.

Hayduke Lives!

George Washington Hayduke, the irrepressible, foul-mouthed, unheroic hero of Edward Abbey's 1975 novel The Monkey Wrench Gang, is back. In Hayduke Lives!, the last book Abbey wrote before his death last March, Hayduke returns from seeming death to pull the members of the Monkey Wrench Gang - A.K. "Doc" Sarvis M.D., Bonnie Abbzug, Joseph "Seldom Seen" Smith - out of their regular, comfortable lives for one final mission.

For Bishop J. Dudley Love and the Search and Rescue Team have returned, bringing in their wake the ultimate earth-moving machine, GOLIATH, to make the American Southwest safe for uranium mines and Holiday Inns.

Fortunately, the Monkey Wrench Gang does not stand alone. Fighting at their side are the members of Earth First!

Earth First! is a true-life organization consisting of anarchists, tree-huggers, nudists, mountain men, flower children and pseudo-intellectuals, just to name a few. The novel The Monkey Wrench Gang was the inspiration for the group, which spouses a simple philosophy: no compromise in defense of Earth.

Abbey takes in stride the dilemma of writing about an organization which was inspired by his own writings. With no trace of vanity or false modesty, he includes his own statements among the inspirational slogans of Earth First! Abbey even goes so far as to have Hayduke own an actual copy (albeit dogeared and filled with searing commentary by the activist) of The Monkey Wrench Gang. Any contradiction is cleared up by a statement at the beginning of The Monkey Wrench Gang stating that the book, "though fictional in form, is based strictly on historical fact. Everything in it is real and actually happened. And it all began just one year from today."

As in most of his novels, Abbey's own viewpoint can often

See HAYDUKE, page 9

The Lawrentian Top Ten

Trivia questions you probably won't hear on WLFM

10. How many pages in the Ariel have Molly Anderson's picture on them?
9. Action question: Find Steve Siegel a job.
8. Will my disks go floo if I take them through?
7. Action question: Steal Rosie, return through campus mail, no questions asked.
6. How much will the trustees raise tuition this year?
5. What's the carbon half-life of Zucchini Oat Flake Bake?
4. Why?
3. What's the phone number of the gas station that Andy Gussert pumped gas at during the summer of 1988?
2. What's the monthly death-toll of fish in the Fox River (round off your answer to the nearest thousand)?
1. Super Garruda: What is the Latin name for the drug that the architect was taking when he designed the art center?

LIFE IN HELL

Mr. Language Person fields questions

By Dave Barry

We are not surprised.

[illegible]

Viking cagers split games with Knox, Illinois College

By Eric Schacht

After slipping to an 0-3 conference record, the Viking men's basketball team swung south last weekend to try to reverse its fortunes. The games against Knox College and Illinois College were crucial games to win if the Vikings hope to remain a factor in the Midwest Conference race. Despite the importance of the Knox game, however, the Vikes came out

"Things certainly don't get any easier, but at least it will be nice to be on our home court."

---Mike Gallus
Men's Basketball Coach

flat and were quickly down 24-5. They never got within eight points after that. It was the second away game in as many tries that Lawrence let a 20-point margin develop early in the game (the 84-57 loss at St. Norberts was the other). The final score ended up 92-72 as the Vikings gave up the second most points they have given up this year.

Lawrence was plagued by its third-worst shooting performance (39%) and lack of rebounding (34 to Knox's 54).

Matt Miota, who entered the game leading the nation in three-point accuracy for Division III schools, was 0-5 behind the stripe--despite his game-high 26 points.

Joel Dillingham picked up the slack from long range by hitting five of seven tries en route to a 17-point night.

The forward-center trio of Clint Schneider, Kurt Ritz and Eric Sager hit on only three of 20 shots (15%) as the Siwash giants Tremier Johnson (21 pts. 13 rebs.) and Greg Meyers (20 pts. 10 rebs.) dominated the inside.

These three Vikings turned things around Saturday afternoon at Illinois College. They combined for 11-for-17 shooting (65%), 28 points and 18 rebounds.

With continued strong play from Dillingham (21 pts.) and Miota (24 pts.)

See MEN'S B-BALL, page 11

MATT MIOTA, the Vikings leading scorer, will try to put LU back into the MC race this weekend as the Vikes host Coe and Grinnell.

Athlete of the week

Sponsored by Domino's Pizza

AMY NEUBERT set a school record in the 880-yard run at the UW-Milwaukee meet last Saturday. The senior captain ran a 2:32.8. (Rick Peterson photo)

The Athletes of the Week are selected each week by The Lawrentian sports staff and receive a free pizza from Domino's

LU hockey is sticking it out

The tides have not yet turned for books as the all-time assist leader Viking hockey. Lawrence (2-12) took to the road last weekend only to be swept by scores of 7-3, 8-4 by host Augsburg College (10-9-2).

The "hot" line for LU was Robbie Stinsa, Paul Michelson, and Peter Giersch. Stinsa popped in two goals and had three assists while Michelson scored twice in Saturday's game. Giersch has now moved into the Lawrence record

Jim Bauchiero stepped out of the hot seat and turned the goalie chores over to Ryan Stone and John Schrule.

Stone put up some Bauchiero-like statistics Friday night with 61 saves, and Schrule had 36 Saturday.

This weekend's games at St. Norbert should be a good test for the Vikings as they will finally face a team of somewhat equal caliber.

Dan's Details

Compiled by Dan Brant

Hockey

Season Scoreboard : 2-12 overall

Name	G	A	TP	PEN-M
Robbie Stinsa	7	6	13	5-10
Peter Giersch	6	5	11	16-32
Romeo Vivit	6	4	10	3-6
Paul Michelson	4	3	7	5-12
Shawn Maher	3	2	5	11-22
Mark Hengerer	1	3	4	13-26
Chris Moody	-	4	4	15-30
Dave Frazier	2	1	3	4-8
Jason Kerr	2	1	3	6-12
Matt Tierney	-	2	2	7-16
Brian Toomey	-	2	2	1-2
Jon Maki	1	-	1	11-22
Ryan Stone	-	1	1	-

GOALTENDING

Name	GP	W	L	GAA	Saves	Pct.
Jim Bauchiero	10.0	2	9	8.2	484	.855
Ryan Stone	2.5	0	2	9.6	134	.848
John Schrule	1.5	0	1	4.7	60	.896

Lawrence Totals	14.0	2	12	8.1	678	.857
Opponent Totals	14.0	12	2	2.3	254	.888

Men's Basketball

Season scoreboard : 8-6 overall 1-4 MC, 4-2 home

Name	G	GS	FG%	3pt%	FT%	RBS	AS	Avg
Miota	14-14	.459	.553	.839	33	60	20.1
Dillingham	14-14	.436	.408	.711	49	15	15.5
Rynders	14-14	.575	.500	.745	66	28	10.5
Ritz	14-0	.493	.000	.653	75	4	7.3
Brant	14-0	.500	.250	.821	26	26	6.5
Sager	12-12	.444	.000	.667	44	10	5.7
Schneider	14-14	.391	---	.520	49	7	3.5
Murchie	5-0	.250	.231	.286	6	0	3.0
Swan	13-0	.571	---	.636	21	2	2.4
Linneman	10-2	.348	.286	1.000	19	2	2.2
Helmken	13-0	.478	.500	1.000	6	3	1.9

Dembroski	11-0	.368	---	.667	7	9	1.6
Lavelle	5-0	.143	---	.333	7	0	0.8
Barbato	6-0	.250	.000	---	4	0	0.7

team	14	.456	.414	.718	507	175	76.8
opp.	14	.469	.338	.675	563	191	70.8

Women's basketball

Season scoreboard : 9-3 overall 1-0 MC, 4-0 home

Name	G	GS	FG%	3PT%	FT%	RBS	AS	Avg
O'Neil	9-8	.511	---	.700	57	11	12.6
Lofgren	11-3	.451	---	.700	56	6	10.9
Skaer	11-11	.400	.326	.765	20	30	9.7
Tomier	11-11	.438	.000	.773	61	14	8.6
Seegers	11-11	.380	---	.611	63	14	8.5
Spangon	11-11	.432	.000	.448	33	42	7.0
Leathers	11-0	.475	---	.467	41	2	5.7
Bergh	5-0	.429	---	.500	20	2	3.8
Steele	11-0	.436	.000	.778	20	27	3.7
Perreault	9-0	.481	---	.250	11	5	3.0
Lubs	11-0	.382	---	.000	24	10	2.4

WRESTLING

Ripon Invit. 1/20	5th (9:53.2); Keith Vander-Meulen, 6th (9:59.8)
1. UW Eau Claire	81.25 women placewinners
2. Lawrence	47.5 Triple Jump--Maksymenko, 1st (32'2")
3. Augsburg	42.25
4. UW Superior	41 Long Jump--Czarniecki, 3rd (16' 1/2")
5. Ripon	29.5
6. Carroll College	25.5 Shot Put--Hayes, 3rd (25'4")
7. N'western (WI)	24.5 Mile Relay--Blahnik, Maksym Neubert, Czarniecki, 3rd, 4:37.6
8. N'western (WI)	17 High Jump-- Maksymenko, 4th (4-10)
Indoor Track summary at UW-Milwaukee Meet	2-mile run-- Jill Edwards, 5th (12:12.4)
men placewinners	880-Yard Run-- Neubert, DNP (2:32.8)
2-mile run-- Chris Naum

FRESHMAN SHARPSHOOTER KRISTA TOMTER threads her way through the opponent's defense. Tomter and the women's squad face undefeated MC foe, Lake Forest tomorrow. (Trevor Thompson photo)

Women's track Vikings seek to legitimize indoor track as winter sport

By Cory Kadlec

The indoor track season commenced last Saturday for the Viking women harriers at the UW-Milwaukee Developmental Meet. Six Viking women placed at the meet, and two school records were set.

The winter schedule has traditionally been looked at as a warm-up for the outdoor season. This is the second season that the Vikings will try to take a more competitive approach. It is now officially recognized as a separate entity from the spring season.

Coach Rich Morrison has seen the program grow and he says that it now has "earned legitimacy on its own."

Each of the other Midwest Conference schools have a program, although some are more fortunate.

"We are at a distinct disadvantage without an indoor facility, particularly in the distance events," explained Morrison.

The core of the indoor team will be sophomores Debbie Czarniecki and Crystal Maksymenko. This dynamic duo will be slated to compete in several events this season.

Maksymenko's strength last year in outdoor track was the hurdles, while Czarniecki is primarily a sprinter. Both enjoyed phenomenal success last season, as the LU record book will attest.

Captains of the team will be seniors Missy Nohr and Amy Neubert. Neubert is usually a part of the mile-relay team, but she showed her versatility last Saturday when she set a school record in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:32.8.

Jill Edwards, first term Athlete of the Week, set the two-mile school record by shaving 20 seconds off the old mark of 12:32.4.

Freshman Julie Secor, who is coming off of a solid cross country season, should contribute. Other freshmen hopefuls include Betsy Blahnik and Kara Kleinhans.

"Blahnik is a competitive miler who will challenge for a relay leg," said Morrison.

Officials argue that Reagan did little for women's sports

(CPS)--The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) awarded its highest honor to former President Ronald Reagan Jan. 8 during its annual convention in Dallas, sparking a low-key protest among some college officials who say he hurt women's athletics during his time in office.

"As far as opportunities for women, as far as minority opportunities during Reagan's administration, they weren't very good," said Donna Lopiano, women's athletic director of the University of Texas. "In fact, they were awful."

"People are upset that the NCAA selection committee chose someone who supported opportunities for just half the population," Lopiano said.

Reagan campaigned against a law called Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, which threatened to cut off federal funds to schools that discriminated against women. He argued the law was an unwarranted federal intrusion in private affairs.

While in office, Reagan's Justice Department wrote "friend of the court" briefs supporting Grove City College's legal challenge to the law, arguing the fund cutoff threat applied only to the specific programs that directly got federal money and, consequently, not athletic programs.

The US Supreme Court subsequently ruled Grove City was correct. In 1988, when Congress approved a Civil Rights Restoration Act to replace Title IX, Reagan vetoed it. Congress later overturned the veto.

The former president's actions did not endear him to women's sports groups, which had used Title IX to pressure colleges to go to the expense of establishing women's sports facilities and teams.

Richard Nixon, Lopiano said, would have been a better choice for the NCAA's award. "He was president when Title IX was promulgated."

The NCAA received five letters concerning the Reagan award, four of them negative, NCAA spokesman Jim Marchiony said. Former professional golfer Carol Mann resigned her seat on the awards committee to protest the honor.

"It's a minor flak," Marchiony said. "I wouldn't call it a national groundswell."

The "Teddy Award," named for Theodore Roosevelt, is given by the NCAA to a "distinguished citizen of national reputation and outstanding accomplishment" who played college varsity sports.

Men's B-Ball . . .

(continued from page 10)

The Vikings shot 55% from the field (season high).

Illinois College, which fell to 2-9, 1-4 in conference, could not withstand a first-half barrage that helped Lawrence to an early 19-point lead. After holding a 48-32 half-time advantage, the game was never closer than the final 84-70 margin.

The turnaround in the performance of the Viking inside play could be a major factor in a late-season surge. Known as a guard/small forward dominated team, a new dimension would ease the pressure off of the Miota/Dillingham/Ross Rynders trio which has netted 61% of the LU points this year.

Entering this weekend's home conference games against Coe and Grinnell, the Vikings need to win both to keep their title hopes alive. Mike Gailus' club is only three points from a 3-2 mark (one-point loss to St. Norbert, and a two-point loss to Ripon), and is 7-1 when they out-shoot their opponents.

Both Viking swim teams leave Ripon in their wake

by Lissa Mach

Both the men's and women's swim team defeated Ripon last Saturday, by scores of 135-48 and 152-60, respectively.

The Vikings captured 22 first-place finishes out of 26 events.

Dual first place winners included Joel Rollings in the 500 and 1000-yard freestyles and Kristi Jahn in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle.

Other first place winners included Eric Burger and Jenny Ackil in the 200-yard breast; Jon

Henke and Teresa Lowe in the 200-yard back; Julie Price and Monte in the diving; Lissa Mach in the 100-yard freestyle; Chad Kemnitz in the 50-yard free; Erin Hagen in the 200 individual medley; and Tony Gotter in the 100 free.

Coach Gene Davis was impressed with the times, but said "We're still not on the level we want to be. This weekend will be more demanding."

The Vikings travel to Beloit on Saturday for a triangular meet with Beloit and Cornell.

The Sports' Shorts

• The frequency of drunken driving arrests among Minnesota Viking players is more a credit to the state's intolerance of drinking and driving than it is a reflection of the team's approach to alcohol.

--Mike Lynn, Vikings General Manager

• Charles Barkley was fined once again. This time the fine was $3500, for pushing Jack Haley of the New Jersey Nets. Haley was fined $1000 for retaliating, and his teammates Roy Hinson, Charles Shackelford, and Parvis Short were fined $500 each for leaving their bench.

• Current leading vote-getters for the 1990 NBA All-Star game--Western Conference: Akeem Olajuwon, James Worthy, Magic Johnson, Karl Malone, John Stockton. Eastern Conference: Patrick Ewing, Larry Bird, Michael Jordan, Mark Aguirre, Isaiah Thomas. Jordan leads all vote-getters with 79,457.

The Friday Crossword

Edited by Herb Ettenson

FAMILY TIES
By Harold B. Counts

ACROSS

- 1 USA part: abbr.
- 5 Fee
- 9 Blueprint
- 13 That can be accomplished
- 19 Ape
- 20 Dutch cheese
- 21 Milan money
- 22 Money put in custody
- 23 Stowe's novel
- 26 "And he that rolleth —"
- 27 NFL member
- 28 Fancied
- 30 Shoshoneans
- 31 Pleasing to look at
- 32 Locations
- 33 Sex appeal
- 36 The sun
- 37 Complains

DOWN

- 1 Give pleasure
- 2 Cool-tasting
- 3 Host
- 4 Set free
- 5 Narrate once more
- 6 Love foolishly
- 7 Berets
- 8 River to the North Sea
- 9 Pluto and Venus
- 10 Those born under the 7th sign
- 11 First sign
- 12 "Peter Pan" dog
- 13 Goddess: Lat.
- 14 Overtime secret group
- 15 Misbehave
- 16 American to the British once

- 38 Laugh
- 39 Graceful tree
- 42 "...owed by so many to —" (Churchill)
- 45 Merchandise
- 46 Detecting device
- 47 Louis IV par exemple
- 48 Sch. type
- 49 Driving aids
- 50 NBA member
- 51 Project
- 52 Deserter
- 53 The world personified
- 56 Get along
- 57 Ancient city of Palestine
- 59 Zenana

- 60 Gaffe
- 61 Corroded
- 62 Silver salmon
- 63 Tropical vine
- 65 City near Essen
- 67 Cafe cards
- 68 Hood
- 71 Actress Sommer
- 72 US painter
- 75 Speed
- 76 Part of an hr.
- 77 CA peak
- 78 Commedia dell'—
- 79 Bakery product
- 80 Bustle
- 81 Writers of potboilers
- 82 Eye sores?
- 84 Long-winged birds
- 85 Hot off the press

- 86 Wallet items
- 87 Evita
- 88 Generation
- 89 Villify
- 91 More tender
- 92 Common plants
- 96 Large desert
- 98 Swift's forte
- 100 Period of trouble
- 101 Exact satisfaction
- 104 Russell vehicle
- 106 Small cactus
- 107 Healing plant
- 108 Priestly garments
- 109 Level
- 110 Goes in
- 111 Take care of
- 112 Stain
- 113 Antitoxins

File

New ⌘N
Open... ⌘O
Close

Save ⌘S
Save As... ⌘A

Print... ⌘P

Quit ⌘Q

With Macintosh you can even do this:

Macintosh* computers have always been easy to use. But they've never been this easy to own. Presenting The Macintosh Sale.

Through January 31, you can save hundreds of dollars on a variety of Apple* Macintosh computers and peripherals.

So now there's no reason to settle for an ordinary PC. With The Macintosh Sale, you can wind up with much more of a computer.

Without spending a lot more money.

© 1989 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc.

The Macintosh Sale.
Now through January 31.

Youngchild 260 or call X6769